CONSENT FOR BIOMERIDIAN STRESS ANALYSIS

A BioMeridian Stress Analysis is an evaluation of the energetic balance in your meridian organ systems. The information gathered through the BSA is not meant to diagnose disease.

During a BSA electricity is introduced by the Epic probe into a circuit created by you holding a metal hand piece. The flow of measured electricity is less than that of an EKG and is virtually risk free. The only relative contraindication is having an implanted electrical device such as a pacemaker, defibrillator or electrical stimulation device.

I _____ have read and understand the above information and give Dr. Sarna permission to perform BioMeridian Stress Analysis on myself.
